Davis & Davis Becomes a Majority Women Owned Business

Celebrating 31 years of interior design Davis & Davis is now a female owned firm!

Farmington Hills, Mich. (September 23, 2021) – It is with great excitement that Davis & Davis announces the firm is now a majority women owned business with Michelle Davis and Jamie Jordan both being Partners of the firm. Howard Davis also remains as a Partner. The key to Davis & Davis' long success has been its leadership and amazing team and with this new announcement the firm is in a strong place for continued success and growth!

Michelle Davis, partner stated, "I am proud and excited to announce our new status as a Majority Women Owned Business. Our team remains unwavering in our commitment to provide forward thinking and human centered design." Michelle recently was honored with being named a 2020 Crain's Notable Women in Design. The women winners for this competition are selected by a team of editors based on their career accomplishments, track record of success in the field, contributions to their community and mentorship of others.

With Michelle and Jamie being Partners, Davis & Davis also boasts an 80% women-to-men ratio within the office. Jamie Jordan, partner stated, "We're honored and proud of our achievements. We have cultivated a great culture and working environment at Davis & Davis and this has been a big benefit for our staff, our business partners, and clients."

Davis & Davis have set high goals of growing the present team by 50%, which the firm is half way there in 2021. The firm is committed to fostering growth in the Detroit area architectural and design field by attracting and creating new opportunities for strong candidates for continued growth at Davis & Davis.

In addition, Davis & Davis was recently honored with a 1st Place award at the annual 2021 Detroit Design Awards event for their interior design project within the O'Hare International Center in Rosemont, Illinois. As stated by Judge Jamie Herzlinger, "The space by Davis & Davis looks current and timeless, and is welcoming and inviting."

About Davis & Davis:

Our team is a group of collaborative and highly dedicated design professionals who are enthusiastic about great design and equally committed to establishing successful relationships. Since 1990, we have been creatively transforming interior environments. Our success hinges on our ability to listen to our clients, ask good questions, work together and deliver compelling, timeless design. That service-oriented focus combined with our ability to foster open communication throughout the project is what makes the Davis & Davis design team experts in interior renovation and successful relationships.
